What types of information does the Graduate College provide for new, current, and prospective students?

New, current, and prospective graduate students should check-in frequently with the UA Graduate College web site for information about degree services, funding opportunities, professional development, child care subsidies and family friendly information, health, wellness and safety, and other helpful information. The UA Graduate Center is also a good resource for graduate students as well as post-docs.