Are computers provided to incoming PTYS graduate students?

The department provides incoming graduate students with MacMini (desktop) computers. Advisors and research groups often provide students with additional computers and resources to support research projects.